WM-Auftakt in Kramolin/CZ

“The glass is half full, not half empty.”

To be honest: The two Weinmann brothers had higher expectations for the opening round of the Sidecar Motocross World Championship in Kramolin, Czech Republic. The pre-season races were consistently packed with several World Championship teams, and we managed to reach the podium a number of times. “Therefore, it’s realistic that we expect a top-ten finish in the World Championship,” driver Joshua succinctly summarizes the ambitions of the two sidecar pilots.

However, at the start of the World Championship series on the lightning-fast track in Bohemia, the two riders from the Kocher Valley faced stiff competition. Not only were 38 teams battling for the 30 starting positions in qualifying, but every position was fiercely contested in both 35-minute races.

“Our problem at the moment is the starts. We only entered the first corner in 20th place. Moving forward from there is hardly possible in this tight field,” passenger Noah concludes, summing up the situation for both races.

Ultimately, the comeback attempt of the two off-road youngsters, aged 23 and 20 respectively, stalled in the first heat, finishing in 16th place, and in the second heat in 13th. In the current World Championship standings, the two drivers from the Kocher Valley are thus in 15th place, at least as the second-best German team.

A consolation, however, that the ambitious off-roaders are not content with. “Despite the considerable effort involved in traveling to the next World Championship round in England in two weeks, we will squeeze in some more start practice sessions in the coming days. We have the pace for the top ten. We just need to manage to get around the starting corner among the top ten,” Noah Weinmann is already making plans.
